Dear Mr Scott

World Science Fiction Convention 2014

As Mayor of London I would be delighted to see London host this convention in 2014. It is a great honour for the city and a warm welcome will be extended to you throughout this prestigious event.

Londoners have a great passion for science fiction. In 2011, the British Library hosted its very own dedicated exhibition to science fiction, bringing together novels, comics and manuscripts from the genre. Throughout the year there are scores of science fiction related events taking place in the capital, from film festivals to book clubs.

London has provided the backdrop for countless works of science fiction, from The War of the Worlds to Doctor Who and would without doubt be an appropriate location for your convention.

With world class restaurants, theatres, museums and cultural activities, London can offer your delegates an enjoyable time outside of the convention. We look forward to welcoming you to our city.

Yours sincerely

Boris Johnson
Mayor of London
